I went into this game wanting to really like it and even expecting it to score well on my first impressions review...

After just ten minutes with it, I felt extremely frustrated and disappointed even though I had only spent 99 cents.

First, you'll NEED a controller to even stand a chance in this game. Don't have a controller? Pfftt, don't even bother.

Second, while I feel the developers spent a lot of time creating the levels and all the enemies in this game with 100 levels offered, this game is severely crippled by what I feel is god awful controls and requirements to be pixel perfect at every jump while trying to beat both a timer and multiple enemies that can fly right through walls and floors. It's enough to make you want to throat punch your monitor. (well if your monitor had a throat that is)

I gave this game a dismal 29% score and it gets my "Not Recommended" and you can see more in this video review from this games launch day on Steam:
